The old-fashioned man who used to go to the pest house in a wagon now has a son who goes to the isolation hospital in an ambulance.

The reason why a farmer's wife can spend a part of her time caring for the cow and the horse is because she doesn't spend any of her time knitting a needle.

BABY COVERED WITH ECZEMA

When 4 Days Old. Cross and Cried. Cuticura Heals.

"My baby brother had eczema which began when he was about four days old. It came in little pimples and then a rash, and he was covered. He was no cross that could not sleep, and he cried."

"This lasted about two months before we used Cuticura. I helped him so we bought more, and he was all healed after he had used two cakes of Soap and two boxes of Ointment." (Signed) Miss Alberta Williams, Youngs Bay, N.B., May 22, 1918.

The Exchange Problem

No one question is commanding such widespread interest in all countries as the problem of exchanging rates of international exchange. It is a problem which has engaged the attention of bankers and governments. Some, however, it called for the careful consideration of all mercantile houses, manufacturers, and others engaged in large enterprises doing an international business. It is a matter of concern to every individual purchaser. It has now reached that acute stage where it is influencing politics, international and domestic, and is vitally affecting all channels of trade and commerce. In the newspaper press, review, and in private conversation it has engendered even discussions of the Peace Treaty and the League of Nations.

So far as Canada is concerned, money is at a premium in practically every country but the United States, where it stands at a very serious discount. British money is at a discount in both Canada and the United States, so too is French, Belgian, Italian, German, and other foreign currencies. The United States alone enjoys the distinction of having its money at a premium in all countries, while Canada comes second with its money at a discount only in the United States.

Canada has always purchased more extensively in the United States than that country has in Canada. In other words, our imports from the States have always exceeded our exports to that country. On the other hand, our exports to Great Britain have always exceeded our imports from the Old Land. In former years we have, therefore, been able to liquidate our "balance of trade" in the United States by British funds on New York; that is, we paid our debts in the States with money which Britain owed to us.

At the present time we cannot do this because, while Great Britain and other European countries owe Canada far more than this country owes the United States, they are not in a position to pay us in cash or in securities negotiable in the States. Because we have been forced to sell to them on credit on the one hand, and on the other they, too, owe the States large sums in excess of what the States owe them.

Therefore, while waiting for that time when Europe will be able to pay Canada what it owes us, we must pay the United States what we owe it, either in gold or in goods. In the three years 1917, 1918 and 1919 Canada bought goods from the United States to a total of one billion dollars in excess of the value of the goods sold by us to the States. Notwithstanding this heavy debt to the United States, the American Exchange National Bank of New York estimated that Canada has a favorable balance with the whole world of over $200,000,000.

In the meantime, and until Canada can collect from other countries, there is only one of two ways, or a combination of both, whereby Canada can fight her balance with the United States. (1) By laying less from the United States than in the past, and buying more at home and from Great Britain, France and other countries; and (2) by procuring in Canada larger quantities of those things which the United States will buy from us, and consequently proceeding to sell such goods across the line.

The fact that the Canadian dollar has at present a purchasing power of only 80 or 85 cents in the United States, with its result, operate to discourage Canadian buying there, while the fact that one dollar will buy more than a dollar's worth of goods in Great Britain will encourage heavier purchases there. This will help to right exchange conditions between Canada and the United States, and will also help the Motherland. From the purely Canadian standpoint, however, the main thing is that our people should produce, or ever increasing volume of those things which are in demand in the United States and which we can most easily and profitably export to that country.

At the same time, the Ottawa Government could, he well advised at the approaching session of Parliament, if it takes no time in adopting the policy advised for so many years by the farmers of the West and increase the preference accorded to British goods under the tariff to fifty per cent. This would greatly assist Great Britain to enlarge her sales in Canada, and, to the extent that she does so, to replace United States goods, thus avoiding loss to Canada and Britain. It would likewise result in a benefit of Customs revenue on the basis of the Canadian consuming habits.

Can Americans also care of conditions are becoming almost over the prospect of losing a considerable part of their Canadian business—Canada is the best customer the United States has—and having financial men there are making adoption of a policy which will have the effect of raising the value of the Canadian dollar across the line back to par.

Canadians, however, should not depend on United States action, but should by hard work and unremitting energy increase production in all lines, and thereby economically increase their export trade to the United States, and thus offset their heavy purchases of needed commodities from that country. And the Ottawa Government should encourage and assist in this work by substantially lowering, or altogether removing, the tariff on all implements of production, coupling therewith a larger tariff preference to British goods.

"Can you tell me the funniest thing you ever saw?"

"Yes, sir, I can. It was a man trying to blow up a solid rubber tire on an automobile."

A little nonsense then and now may do you an awful lot.

WINTER WEATHER

HARD ON LITTLE ONES

Our Canadian winters are exceedingly hard on the health of little ones. The weather is often so severe that the mother cannot take the little one out for an airing. The consequence is that baby is confined to overheated, badly ventilated rooms, takes cold and becomes cross and peevish. Baby's Own Tablets should be given to keep the little one healthy. They are a mild laxative which regulate the stomach and bowels and thus prevent colic. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers, or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Disappointing Peace

This is not the peace whose hope kindled us through the dark days of the war. The new world that we thought we were making then is still unborn; the spirit of international rivalry and distrust is not safely chained up; and instead of a world animated by the ideal of common good, we have a world, partly distracted by the rivalry between the fiercely opposing principles of constitutional progress and partisan tyranny, partly reflecting an indifference towards this issue which it cannot really feel, and including the old hopes of political isolation that broke down so completely during the war.

Drilling For Oil and Gas in South-western Saskatchewan

East End, in southwestern Saskatchewan, on the C. P. R. Branch line, known as the Lethbridge-Weyburn line, promises to be the centre of oil and gas drilling. Negotiations have been completed by the Imperial Oil Company for the purchase of the oil drilling outfit there with a view, after a geological survey has been made in the spring, to explore possibilities for oil and gas. East End is also known as Frenchman's Creek and White Mud on account of the peculiar nature of the soil there. It is the centre of large pottery works.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 10, 1920.

"Organization, co-operation and direction are going hand in hand throughout the agricultural districts of the country," is the opinion of W. J. Rutherford, Dean of the Saskatchewan College of Agriculture, who expresses the following views in the Agricultural Chronicle for January. He says, "Farming is not the independent job, confined occupation that it was a generation ago. Conditions have changed from the pioneer day and production has not only to do with supplying the demands of the home but it must aim to create an export trade. Farming is a real business, necessarily carried on by men and women who are not only skillful in the art and practice but are versed in the science of agriculture. Farmers today are not content to know only how to grow good crops, they want to know also how to market them to good advantage. They are interested in the economic problems of their own communities and to a great extent in the problems of their customers in the city. Agriculture is both industry and commerce and affects both the rural and city population. The agriculturist of today is not merely a practical farmer, but is necessarily a social worker. Rural communities have problems which require college-trained men to solve."

About two weeks ago we printed a sale bill for Mr. McFarlane and in our rush we inadvertently omitted the letter "C" in "Auction." As we were in too much of a hurry to read proof on this bill, it went out with the error occupying a most conspicuous position. We are not offering any excuse; it was entirely our fault. It was no joke with us, but some one turned it into one for us by carefully making a large letter "C" at the beginning of the line, making it read "Caution," instead of "Auction" and mailed us a copy. The advice was good, and if the author will call at the Pioneer office, he may have his choice between the best cigar in town or a bottle of 2 per cent. There is nothing concealed up our sleeve, being sport and take advantage of this magnificent offer.

The reason why a girl can find a man the way she likes is because she knows how to make him think that he is finding her.

Government

Clyde Stallion

Parties wishing to breed mares to the Clydesdale stallion purchased by the Alberta Department of Agriculture, "Clyde" at Mustertown, 1807, during the season of 1920, will make application to S. G. Farley, Live Stock Commissioner, Department of Agriculture, Edmonton, giving name and registration number of mare. A check will be payable at time of service, but a check for the fee fixed by the Clydesdale Association and the Live Stock Commissioner will be payable when the mare prices 10 lbs. in food.

The location of the horse in the province will also be decided by the commissioner, and arrangements will be made that the services in every case will cover the freight so as to enable him to participate in different parts of the province. Further particulars will be published shortly, but parties desiring to breed mares should make application at once. The stallion will likely be ready to begin the season about May 1st. The Commissioner and Live Stock Commissioner are now the right to receive the list of applications and make such rules and regulations as may be deemed necessary regarding the services of this stallion.

S. G. FARLEY,
Live Stock Commissioner.

Fails to Cure Quickly

Mine is a marvelous remedy. There are others, but not one possesses the peculiar merit so prominent in mine. With my remedy I guarantee to cure constipation. I also guarantee to prevent it. My preparation, which is in pill form, gives tone and regularity to the bowels that quickly rid the system of effete matter, accumulations of bile and other injurious results of constipation.

I call my pills Dr. Hamilton's. I am sure they are safe, because composed of such health-giving vegetable extracts as Mandrake, Butter-milk, Hyoscyamus and Sennalax. My pills are not harsh or drastic. They cause no pain, no distress; they are prescribed by physicians because of their mildness and certainty to cure.

For women and children I know of no better medicine than Dr. Hamilton's. It keeps the system healthy. For men they are perfect.

I have proved their merit in millions of cases, constipation and headache, and can strongly recommend them in these conditions.

THE COW PUNCHER

She controlled herself, but when she spoke again her voice had fear and shame in it. "But I tell you, Mr. Elden, but I must tell you—I took—I let him give me some money—to buy things—clothes. I was short of money, and I wanted to buy some new clothes—and he would pay me extra in advance. And he gave me fifty dollars—and—five I spent it."

Elden swung on his heel and peered the length of the office in quick, sharp strides. When he returned to where Miss Warden stood, wrapped about in her misery, his fists were clenched and the veins stood out on the back of his hands. "Scoundrel!" he muttered, "scoundrel! And I have been tied to him. I have let him blind me; I have let him set the standards; I have let him weigh the coal. Well, now I know him! There was a menace in his last words that frightened even Gladys Warden, will though she knew the menace was not to her, but ranged in her defence.

"Here," he said, "he took some from his pocket. 'You must tell him you can't go—tell him you won't go; you must remain here, and I will lend you what you need. Don't be afraid; I will go with you—'

"But I can't take your money, either, Mr. Elden, she protested. 'I can't stay here any longer; I will have no job, and I can't pay you back. You are here, and I will go from you. What a fool I was! For a few clothes—'

"You will continue to work—for me," he said.

"She shook her head. 'No, I can't. I can't work anywhere now, but—'

"You won't need to. The firm of Conward & Elden will be dissolved at once. I have always felt that there was something false in Conward—something that wouldn't stand test. I thought it was in his business life, and yet that didn't quite seem to give the answer. Now I know."

There was the sound of a key in the street door, and Conward entered.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

Conward paused as he entered the room. He had evidently not expected to find Elden there, but after a moment of hesitation he nodded cordially to his partner.

"Almost ready, Miss Warden?" he asked, cheerily.

"He took his watch from his pocket and consulted it."

Dave's eyes were fixed on the girl. He wondered whether, in this testing moment, she would fight for herself or lean weakly on him as her protector. Her answer reassured him.

"It makes no difference when it goes, Mr. Conward. I'm not going."

"Best, Belders, Son, has been—keep your eyes strong and healthy. If they tire, smart, itch or burn, if sore, irritated, inflamed or granulated, use Murine often. Safe for Infant or Adult. At all Druggists in Canada. Write for Free Eye Book. Murine Company, Chicago, U.S.A."

on it." Her voice trembled nervously, but there was no weakness in it. The money which she had given her was still crumpled in her hand. She advanced to where Conward stood, bravely trying to ignore the situation, and held the bills before him. "Here is your money, Mr. Conward," she said.

"Why, what does this mean?" "Here is your money. Will you take it, please?"

"No, I won't take it, until you explain."

"She snatched her finger, and the bills fell to the floor. 'All right,' she said."

Conward's eyes had shifted to Dave. "You are at the bottom of this, Elden," he said. "What does it mean?"

"It means, Conward," Dave answered, and there was steel in his voice—"it means that after all these years I have discovered what a cur you are—just in time to haul you, at least in this instance."

Conward flushed, but he maintained an attitude of composure. "You've been drinking, Dave," he said. "I meant no harm to Miss Warden."

"Please make me call you a liar as well as a cur."

The word cut through Conward's mask of composure. Now by God I won't take that from any man, he shouted, and with a swing of his arms threw his coat over his shoulders. Dave made no motion, and Conward slowly brought his coat back to position.

"I was right," said Dave, calmly. "I knew you wouldn't fight. You think more of your skin than you do of your honor. Well—it's better worth protection."

"If this girl were not here," Conward protested, "I wouldn't fight."

"Oh, I will leave," said Miss Warden, with alacrity. "And I hope he soaks you well!" she shot back, as the door closed behind her. By the time Conward had assumed a superior attitude, "Dave," he said, "I won't fight over a quarrel of this kind. But remember, there are some things in which no man allows another to interfere. Least of all such a man as you. There are ways of getting back, and I'll get back."

"Why such a man as me? I know I haven't been much of a merchant in business matters—I've been in the wrong company for that—but I draw the line."

"Oh, you're fine stuff, all right. What would your friend Miss Hardy think if I told her all I know?"

"You know nothing that could affect Miss Hardy's opinion—"

"No, you don't. You're not blushing a tenderfoot now. I call you. If you've got any cards—play them."

"I've got two good ones, and so poor," Conward sneered. "Why were your lights off that night I passed your door, oh, I guess you remember. What will Miss Hardy think of that?"

For a moment Dave was unable to follow Conward's thought. Then his mind reached back to that night he drove into the country with Bert Morrison, when on the brow of a hill he switched off his lights that they might the better advance the journey of the swimmers. That Conward should place an evil interpretation upon that incident in the least so monstrous, so altogether beyond argument, that Dave fell back upon the basic human instinct reserved for such occasions. His lips parted, and Conward crumpled up before it.

Conward lay stunned for a few minutes, then, with returning consciousness, he tried to sit up. Dave helped him to a chair. Blood flowed down his face, and as he began to realize what had occurred it was joined with pain, rage, humiliation.

"You got that one on me, Elden," he said, after awhile. "But I was your coward's bluff. You hit me when I wasn't looking. Very well. Two can play at that game. I'll hit you when you're not looking . . . where you don't expect it . . . where you can't hit back!"

Conward lay on his back, and with one you strike me—you that I took out of a thirty-dollar-a-week job and made me all your own. I did it, Dave; gave you the money to start with, coached you all the way. And you hit me . . . when I wasn't looking. He said spitefully: his throat was choked with mortification and self-loathing. "Very well. I know the stake you're playing for. And I'm going to spoil it!"

He turned his swollen, bloody face to Dave's, and hatred stood up in his eyes as he uttered the threat. "I'll hit you, Dave," he repeated, "where you can't hit back!"

"Thanks for the warning," said Conward.

"You'll find you've won," returned Conward, looking at his friend. "You'll find out that you didn't. I'll present her to you, Dave, like that."

"She'll be a good deal more than an ash tray and held it before him."

Dave's impulse was to seize the thick, fatty thrust in his hands and choke it fiercely. With a resolute effort he turned to the telephone and lifted the receiver.

No Very Drastic Liquor Reforms For Great Britain

London.—The parliamentary representative of the Pall Mall Gazette, discussing impending legislation with regard to control of the liquor traffic, says that the measures at present contemplated are not calculated to rouse any great feeling in the country. He points out that the government's plans provide for strict limitation of the hours of sale, but involve only minor changes in the present hours, which are virtually a continuation of the hours in effect under war restrictions.

One of the main features of the scheme is for improvement of the saloons, the correspondent says. The number of licenses will be reduced in certain districts. No attempt will be made to provide local option, but the future of this question will depend largely on the result of the Scottish experiment this year.

How Kolchak Met Death

Was Killed to Prevent His Rescue
By White Troops

London.—Admiral Kolchak was executed by his own troops to prevent his rescue by white troops moving in the direction of Irkutsk for that purpose, according to a Copenhagen dispatch to the Herald. The Moscow Soviet sent a wireless message asking his captors to spare his life, but the appeal was too late.

The Moscow wireless service on January 31 transmitted an extract of an article from the official Bolshevik organ, Pravda, which said:

"Only a few days ago Supreme Ruler Kolchak was hoisted on his soldiers' bayonets."

SHORT OF BREATH Could Hardly Walk Without Resting.

When you go to a physician to be examined for any heart trouble, one of the first questions he asks is: "Are you short of breath?"

Now, when the heart becomes affected there ensues a feeling of a choking sensation, a shortness of breath, palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating, smothering sensation, dizziness and a weak, sinking, all-gone feeling of oppression and anxiety.

On the first sign of the heart becoming weakened or the nerves unstrung Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are just the remedy you require. They regulate and stimulate the heart, and strengthen and restore the whole nerve system.

Mr. Stephen Crouse, East Clifford, N.S., writes: "I suffered for five years with heart trouble. I could hardly walk from the house to the barn without resting, as I used to get so short of breath. Doctors could not help me. My wife told me to get a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and I felt better after taking them; three boxes made me quite well. I am now helping my son to work the farm, and can truthfully say I feel like a different man."

Prize 50c a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto.

Former Crown Prince Acted on Impulse in Offering to Surrender

Amsterdam.—Former Crown Prince Wilhelm of Germany sent his telegram to the heads of allied governments offering to surrender in place of Germans demanded in the allied extradition list, almost on the impulse of the moment, according to an interview with Major Von Muhlheim, the former Crown Prince's adjutant, published in the Telegraaf.

The former heir to the German throne, said the major, after confirming reports that a telegram had been sent, "took his resolution without thinking long about it. The return of Baron Von Lersner from Paris and the serious situation which has arisen in Berlin in consequence, prompted the prince to send his telegram. He hopes by this to avert serious difficulties for Germany."

Dutch newspapers describe Wilhelm's action as a "beautiful gesture."

Stop Whipping Bowels Into Activity, but take "Cascarets"

Put aside the Salts, Pills, Castor Oil, or Purgative Waters that irritate and lash the bowels into action, but which do not thoroughly cleanse, freshen and purify these drainage organs, and have no effect whatever upon the liver and stomach.

Keep your "insides" pure and fresh with Cascarets, which thoroughly cleanse the stomach, remove the undigested, sour food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels which are keeping you half sick, headachy and miserable.

Cascarets tonight will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken or cause inconvenience. Cascarets cost so little, too.

Borden May Retire

Dispatches from England Indicate That Premier's Health Is Far From Being Restored

Ottawa.—Doubt whether Sir Robert Borden will be able to resume the active premiership has been raised by press dispatches from London. The dispatches indicated that his health is yet far from restored. If such continues to be the case, his retirement from political life is regarded here as inevitable.

So far the government is without word of Sir Robert's intentions. He left for three or four months' holiday without any definite destination in view, although it was his intention to accompany Lord Jellicoe to South Africa had Lord Jellicoe gone there. No official mail is being forwarded to Sir Robert, as it is desired that his rest should be as complete as possible.

It is thought, however, that Sir Robert's stay in England will be of brief duration. It is regarded as

Livestock Contract Is Discussed by C.P.R. Heads

Railways Would Need New Department to Care for Cattle En Route

Ottawa.—In the opinion of Mr. Chas. Murphy, general manager of the Canadian Pacific western lines, the railways should not be required to take care of cattle en route. In a somewhat lengthy statement which he made to the railway commissioners when the livestock contract case was continued, Mr. Murphy argued this was the responsibility of the shipper and not the carrier.

The railways, he said, would need an army of men for the sole purpose of caring for cattle if they were required to do so, and as agreements with the trainmen and agents precluded their being asked to do this kind of work, it would mean the creation of an entirely new department by the railways. The expense of this would be prohibitive.

Mr. Murphy opened his statement by emphasizing the point that the C.P.R. was interested in the development of the livestock industry and anxious to give the shippers the best possible service. He drew attention to the difficulties which the railways had to contend with in the shipment of cattle during the winter owing to the very severe climate in the West, and stated that sometimes when cars containing cattle were shipped across the line it was difficult to get them back. Turning to the question of attending to the cattle en route, he emphasized the possibility that this should be the shippers' responsibility, and stated that the Canadian Pacific Railway was running special stock trains with a coach attached for accommodation of attendants. The railwaymen, said Mr. Murphy, were willing to help out in caring for the animals when delays occurred, but they would resent having to do this as part of their duties. He caused some amusement by suggesting to Mr. George Henderson, who was examining him, that Mr. Henderson interview representatives of the trainmen's unions and see if they would accept the proposition that their members be called upon to care for the cattle en route.

Chief Commissioner Carvell asked Mr. Murphy for an estimate of the number of men who would be required to care for cattle en route on the main lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway in the West, but Mr. Murphy was unable to answer this.

The protection of attendants travelling with the cattle should, he thought, be provided for through the insurance companies.

Opposition to State Ownership

Conference of Miners and Producers
Objected to Nationalization
of Any Industry

London.—After considerable discussion of the question of nationalization of mines, the conference of miners and producers convoked by the federation of British industries passed a resolution against a state ownership, and state ownership of any branch of industry.

Sir Sam Nimmo, vice-president of the Mining Association of Great Britain, who presented the resolution, said that the meaning of the demand of miners for nationalization was an effort to seize the vitals of the community and force out of the community conditions as to wages and employment which the miners believed they ought to obtain.

After nationalization of mines, Mr. Nimmo stated, labor intended to nationalize the land, shipping, banking and insurance, and ultimately secure in their hands the whole means of production of the country.

As Might be Expected

King's Speech Is Not Favored By the Irish Press

London.—Irish press comment on the King's speech follows: The Freeman's Journal: "The references in the speech to Ireland are a mockery of public intelligence."

The Irish Times: "The government is treating the Home Rule Bill as no government has ventured to treat any of its predecessors. No party or interest in Ireland has been consulted about it. The government clearly intends to rush the new bill through parliament, and regards the emptiness of the Irish benches as a stroke of good luck rather than a misfortune."

London.—J. Austen Chamberlain of the Exchequer announced that the government was willing to participate in a financial conference by one of the neutral League of Nations, provided that the conference assume a really representative character.

The announcement was made in a memorial from banker.

The Chancellor said the government wished to make it quite clear that in the Britain's participation could not support or any scheme involving the liabilities of Great Britain in the United States.

Mr. Chamberlain again declared the attitude of the States government was of first importance, as it was not clear whether the United States participation could be obtained without affecting the utility of such a conference, however, to omit any act calculated to participate on conditions.

The government, Mr. Chamberlain continued, was imprudent in attempting to solve the problem by new borrowing by internal or external means, which would lead down as the cardinal principle of government grant further aid to countries.

"The government is contributing to the reconstruction of Europe," Mr. Chamberlain said, "and is inclined to make exceptions to the general rule that government loans should cease. At the present moment discussions with the United States and certain other countries are going on which did not arise in the war, with regard to the government credits to Poland for the supply of raw materials sufficient for these countries to restart their industrial life."

B. C.'s Pulp and Paper Industry

Now Producing About Seven Million Tons of Paper Annually

British Columbia is now producing 645 tons of paper daily, or about seven million tons annually. Eleven years ago the province was not producing any paper at all. The progress that has been made in the last eleven years is being maintained, so that during the next few years a considerable increase in the pulp and paper industry of the province may be looked for.

British Columbia produces fourteen per cent. of the pulp and paper manufactured in Canada—the second largest paper-producing country in the world—at the present time, being the third largest producing province, following Quebec with 24,000,000 tons and Ontario with 21,000,000 tons annually.

INFLUENZA HAS LATER DANGERS

Particular Care Needed When Patient Is Convalescent, Says Expert

The influenza convalescent who has apparently recovered from the disease and is yet as weak as a kitten, is a person of particular care, according to Dr. Louis I. Harris, a physician in the Bureau of Preventable Diseases of the New York Health Department. In the opinion of Dr. Harris, the after care of the influenza patient is most important. The cooperation of the patient, coupled with the willingness to see that the weakness and depression are a part of the illness, though coming after the disease itself has spent its force, is a big factor in effecting a complete return to full health. On the other hand, the determination to ignore this debilitated condition and to fight against it will, Dr. Harris says, frequently bring serious consequences.

After Effects Bad
"The subject of the after effects of influenza," said Dr. Harris, "is one of particular interest to the scientist at the present time."

First and perhaps the most important condition to be considered, is the striking depression, mental, nervous, and physical, coupled with a loss of energy, which is characteristic of most patients. Those attacked by the disease with moderate severity are almost always afflicted with this depression. It should be recognized and dealt with. Those who have had mild cases of this epidemic are little affected by depression, and their quick return to health and strength gives rise to the belief that influenza is trivial. On the contrary, influenza in its after effects is anything but trivial, and calls for the application of rules of common sense and sanitation, which are the fruit of years of experience.

"Tonic treatment, well chosen diet, and great care in not becoming over-tired or allowing the body to be chilled are necessary. Food may be eaten, but not more than two a day, for the average adult. Of course, it must be remembered that many cases this disease tends to direct its force against the kidneys, and therefore we have to restrict the diet to a limited number. The raw eggs should always be well agitated before taking. When Good Food Is Bad."

"With milk and eggs as a foundation, the patient should eat good nourishing food, including meat, fish and vegetables, simply prepared. Frying, for instance, is out of the question. Good food prepared in an unassailable manner becomes bad food; especially is this to be noted in cases of convalescence from influenza, for the disease often manifests itself in vomiting, and in intestinal and gastric disturbances, and it is important not to weaken the digestive function by the eating of poorly prepared food, or even the best of food in ill-digested quantities. The quantitative distribution of foodstuffs should be so adjusted as not to overtax the stomach, but the patient should eat generously and frequently."

As a tonic to build up the blood and the shattered nerves, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are unsurpassed. These pills actually make new, rich, red blood, which carries every organ and every nerve in the body, improves the appetite, strengthens digestion and drives away the feeling of weakness and depression always following an attack of influenza or grippe. Those who give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial will be amply repaid by the new health and strength this tonic medicine always gives.

Encouragement
A hospital nurse was examining an order of his practical knowledge of first aid work.
"Now, what would you do if a man collapsed?" she asked.
"Give him some brandy, miss," replied the man.
"But suppose you had no brandy?"
"I'd promise him some, miss."

A Nervous Wreck

BY DR. D. L. GRANTHER.

How many business men feel fagged out, nervous, with a "soggy brain"—worn out completely before the day and its tremendous tasks are half over? Try the right way! Clean the body first. That will help your nerves, your head and your circulation. Your doctor will tell you that anything from a headache or a common cold to grippe or a serious illness may result from allowing food to ferment in the intestines. Don't give the body a chance to absorb the poisons. Remove the toxins from the system and give the tissues of the body aid to resist disease by taking an occasional laxative such as castor oil, or a tiny pill made up of May-apple, aloin, jalap, and sold by most druggists as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

The kidneys and bladder suffer from the wear and tear, and we get chronic inflammations sometimes indicated by backache, painful voiding of water—dull, heavy feelings. Perhaps the uric acid is stored up in the system in excessive amount, and consequently when the urate salts are deposited in muscles and joints one suffers from lumbago (pain in back), rheumatic pains, gout, etc.

Nothing will act so nicely as "Anurio" (anti-uric-acid), a recent discovery of Dr. Pierce's which can be had at all drug stores. "Anurio" washes away the poisons, cleanses the bladder and kidneys—rendering them antiseptic—consequently one is soon cured of lumbago, rheumatism, gout, and the body is put into a clean, healthy state.
